Beautiful Window in Old Powder Horn at Williamsburg.

GIFT OF MRS. WARNER MOORE

Unveiled Under Auspices of S. P. V. A .-- Impressive Ceremonies, Including Eloquent Address of Mr. Robert Bright, of Philadelphia, and Dr. Tyler.

(Special Dispatch to The Times.)
WILLIAMSBURG, VA., Nov. 15.—Under the auspices of the Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, a memorial window was unveiled in the old Powder Horn at Williamsburg to-day to Nathaniel Bacon, the leader of the Virginia revolution of 1676, the first step in the sequence of events that led to the freedom of the colonies from the rule of the British crown.

The memorial is a gift from Mrs. Warner Moore, of Richmond, whose mother was a great-niece of Bacon, and is one of a series of memorials being placed in and around Williamsburg, marking spots associated with the birth of a new free-om in a new land.

The ceremonies, which were impressive and highly interesting, consisted of a presentation speech by Dr. Lyon G. Tyler, president of William and Mary College, at the Fowder morn, during which are veil was drawn aside, revealing the window in all its beauty, and a memorial dow in all its beauty, and a memorial address by Mr. Robert Bright, of Philadelphia, a son of Mr. Robert A. Bright, of Willamsburg.

It was about noon when the veil was drawn, showing a three-quarter length portrait of Bacon in the uniform of a cavaller soldier.

ΜΕΜΟΒΙΑΙ ADDRESS.

The audience then repaired to the col-lege chapel, where Mr. Robert S. Bright, a lawyer of Philadelphia and a native of Lynchburg, delivered a memorial ad-dress on Nathaniel Bacon, that both from a historical and oratorical point of view may be classed as admirable. The speakwas chaste, fluent and at times eloquent in his diction, and his hearers paid the closest attention to the account of the life of one of Virginia's greatest sons, the first to light the shrine of liberty in the new land and to raise his voice and sword against the dectrine of the Divine Right

So noble woman has hed in tender memory the great many long neg-lected, whose life-work she has greatly led us here to-day to contemplate.

Old men and young men, women and children all have profited by the free use of this great new discovery. Write to-day if you are bald, if your hair is falling out or if your hair, eyebrows or eyelashes are thin or and in a short time you will be entirely restored.

The truthfulness of the early books of the Bible has been denied by a certain class of modern scholars, but during the last ten years, said Dr. Penniman, the University of Pennsylvania has dug up from the ruins of ancient Babylonia thousands of clay tablets, confirming the state-ments of Moscs in the very particulars where they had been denied. These ex-plorations have shown that four thouand years before Christ there were great and civilized nations on the earth. One temple which had been unearthed had a frontage of 600 feet.

JUDGE HAKRISON TALKS TAXATION

He Argues Very Ably for His Scheme.

THE CORPORATION COMMITTEE

Session of That Body Results in Important Action - Convention

The Convention Committee on Finance and Taxation heard a very interesting argument from Judge Harrison yesterday afternoon in support of the resolution introduced by him Thursday, which was printed in The Times yesterday. It re-lates to the classification of subjects of taxation and provides for uniform and equal taxation. To this end the real esequal taxation. To this end the real estate is to be taxed by counties and cities for local purposes and the revenue of the State is to be derived from taxation of franchises of railroads and other corporations, liquor licenses, etc. No county or city taxes shall be imposed on this class of privileges. The General Assembly is authorized to tax railroads not exceeding 300 per mile and toxes for sale ceeding $300 per mile, and taxes for sale of liquor shall be from $500 to $1,000 per annum for State purposes.

The subject is one of so much importance the committee decided to give representatives of railroads, cities, and the liquor interests an opportunity to be heard. Tuesday, November 25th, at 10 o'clock, was set for the railroads, and Wednesday, the 27th, at 10 o'clock, for the cities and liquor interests. Mr. Thom made a strong argument in behalf of his resolution to allow municipalities to exempt invisible property from municipal taxation. Mr. Waddill address-ed the committee in support of his reso-lution to prohibit counties to create any bonded indebtedness with a vote of the prople. No action was taken.

The Committee on Corporations adopted sections 6, 7, 9, 11 and 13 of the ordinance on public corporations. Section 8, refer-ring to the right of eminent domain; 10, requiring fereign corporations to become domesticated, and 12, declaring that no foreign corporation shall exercise in this State any of the powers of a public ser-vice corporation not granted to domestic corporations, were passed by. Messrs. Hunton and Brooks opposed the whole scheme. Mr. Wysor said corporations were children of the State, and he thought inflexible general laws should be put in the Constitution for their guidance, control and to raise them up right. Chairman Braxton said the trouble about the Legislature was that these necessary laws had repeatedly been rejected by that body. He said members had just as well look matters square in the face. The pro-posed ordinance was not an experiment. Mr. Hunton said he should at the proper time offer a substitute for the whole scheme. He was not opposed to some of the features of the ordinance as a statute but he most earnestly objected to putting such things in a Constitution which could not be changed, amended or repealed, if they proved mischievous or disastrous.

Colonel Wm. B. Pettit, of Fluvanna yes, erday presented in the convention an ordinance on the subject of the judiciary of the State, which was ordered to be printed.

The plan set forth in Colonel Pettit's The plan set forth in Coloner Fetters ordinance provides that all the judges shall be elected by the people as under the Constitution of 1851.

It provides that there shall be twelve circuit judges, elected by districts, and four judges of the Court of Appeals, to be chosen from and by grand divisions of the State.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Rose Cecilit Shay Opera Com-pany sang "Carmen" at the Academy last night. There was a large audience pres-ent, and judging from the applause an appreciative one. It is not that grand opera is heard in Richn and this alone should make such oc-casions attractive to music lovers. Miss Shay is young, handsome and of an at-tractive personality. Her voice is a sweet mezzo-soprano, almost a contralto, and it has good carrying qualities, although it is somewhat lacking in volume. She has evidently studied and worked hard and she sings with artistic taste and finish. However, it must be confessed that she was by no means an ideal Carmen.
